Appearance of household solar container battery

Overview

---

What size solar battery do I Need?

In general, a battery size of 8 to 15kWh will suit most average (3-bedroom) homes with adequate solar. However, the right battery size depends on your daily energy usage (kWh) and backup power needs. If you already have solar, your system monitoring or electricity bill will show how much power you use and export to the grid each day.

How do I 'accurately' size a solar & battery system?

The correct way to 'accurately' size a solar & battery system is by first monitoring your household electricity consumption and using this data to size a suitable solar array and battery. You can get this data in several ways, either by using an aftermarket energy meter or by downloading your smart meter data (if you have one installed).

Which solar battery should I buy?

The right choice comes down to a mix of your solar system size, your daily energy usage, and how much backup you need during blackouts. For example, the Tesla Powerwall 2 has been one of the most popular batteries in Australia and North America for years, thanks to its large 13.5 kWh capacity and good track record.

Are solar battery systems realistic?

However, the pace of development has also caused some confusion about what is realistically achievable and which system best suits individual needs. Although trained solar installers can provide excellent guidance, the public and media often misunderstand the true capabilities and limitations of solar battery systems.
