Overview

Why do cellular base stations have backup batteries?

Abstract: Cellular base stations (BSs) are equipped with backup batteries to obtain the uninterruptible power supply (UPS) and maintain the power supply reliability. While maintaining the reliability, the backup batteries of 5G BSs have some spare capacity over time due to the traffic-sensitive characteristic of 5G BS electricity load.

How many base stations and backup battery features are there?

In this paper, we closely examine the base station features and backup battery features from a 1.5-year dataset of a major cellular service provider, including 4,206 base stations distributed across 8,400 square kilometers and more than 1.5 billion records on base stations and battery statuses.

Can BS backup batteries be used as flexibility resources for power systems?

Therefore, the spare capacity is dispatchable and can be used as flexibility resources for power systems. This paper evaluates the dispatchable capacity of the BS backup batteries in distribution networks and illustrates how it can be utilized in power systems.

Is there a mismatch between backup batteries and power outages?

Our real trace-driven data analysis clearly reveals that in the battery allocation strategy currently used in practice, there exists a mismatch between the supporting ability of backup batteries and the power outage situations in each base station. The mismatch can lead to serious problems in base stations.
