China upgrade circuit breaker in Israel

Overview

Does China enter Israel's strategic assets through the private sector?

Recently, Dalia Energy signed design and construction agreements with three Chinese companies to build two new power stations, creating a loophole through which China enters strategic Israeli assets through the private sector.

Does Chinese technology pose a strategic threat to Israel's healthcare system?

In conclusion, the use of Chinese technologies in Israel's healthcare system, together with dependence on Chinese basic medical supplies and deep Chinese penetration into critical national infrastructures encouraged for years by Israeli governments, poses a strategic threat.

Does China support Israel?

China has never supported Israel on the Palestinian issue, and since the October 7 massacre, it has taken a clearly hostile, pro-Palestinian stance. This includes public recognition of the Palestinian right of return and diplomatic actions in the UN and the Security Council that undermine Israel.

Did the Chinese government intercept American critical infrastructure in 2024?

This occurred despite consistent warnings from senior security officials, both publicly and privately. In 2024, then-FBI director Christopher Wray testified before a special US congressional committee on the Chinese threat. He stated that the Chinese government intercepts American critical infrastructure.
