

Solar heating glass

Overview

What is solar control glazing?

Solar control glazing is a type of glass that is designed to control the amount of solar heat that enters a building. It is an essential component of building design in warm climates, where excessive heat gain can lead to uncomfortable indoor temperatures, increased energy consumption, and higher cooling costs.

What is heat insulation solar glass (HISG)?

Heat insulation solar glass (HISG) is a type of multifunction PV module. HISG has a considerably low shading coefficient and U value. HISG can reduce air conditioning and heating energy consumption in buildings. HISG can replace any type of glass installed in a building. HISG is a safe construction material.

What is passive solar control glazing?

Passive solar control glazing, such as tinted glass and reflective glass, is typically less expensive and easier to install than active solar control glazing, such as photochromic glass and electrochromic glass.

What are the different types of solar and thermal glass?

Our solar and thermal glass is available in different types. From invisible protection by in the form of a solar control coating on the glass (Briljant®) and mass-coloured glass and/or a reflective coating (Isolide Sun®), to fully integrated sun protection between the windows using Screenline®.
